

THE CENTER

FOR DERMATOLOGY, COSMETIC & LASER SURGERY

MARTHA STEWART Living

SNAP SMY!
Popping makeup and dirt off by a shower. Just wash, rinse and repeat. All your other products will follow. It's time to take things beyond the shower to clean and refresh.

Eye Wash
Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation.

Face Wash
Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation.

Cleanser
Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation.

Facial Toner
Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation.

Eye Wipes
Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation.

Cleansing Oil
Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation.

Cleansing Balm
Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation.

Cleansing Mist
Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation. Use for contact lenses and eye irritation.

"Cleanser removes everything, from makeup to microscopic bacteria, dirt, and pollutants," says David Bank, a dermatologist based in Mount Kisco, New York.

Skip the a.m. suds
Unless you have acne, washing your face once a day is fine, says dermatologist David Bank. Do it before bed to scour away the day's dirt and debris, and splash your face with water or use a micellar water in the morning.

THE LONG LIST

What is micellar water?

How to use micellar water

Best micellar water

Best eye wash

Best face wash

Best cleanser

Best facial toner

Best eye wipes

Best cleansing oil

Best cleansing balm

Best cleansing mist